

West Virginia University
National Undergraduate Philosophy Conference

Friday, March 27th, 2009
E. Moore Hall

4pm – Keynote – Aristotle: Chance and Teleology, Beverly Hinton-Lentz,
Professor of Philosophy, West Virginia University

Saturday, March 28th, 2009
E. Moore Hall

10:30am - Continental Breakfast

11am - The Impact of Chalmers' Theory of Consciousness on the Theistic Argument from Consciousness, Andrew Brenner, University of North Florida

Commentator: Elizabeth Godown, West Virginia University

11:50am - Socrates and Akrasia in Plato's Protagoras, Evan Claudeanos, University of California, Berkeley

Commentator: Allison Broski, West Virginia University

12:35pm - Epistemic Humanity: Finding Knowledge in Aesthetic Connection, Josh Hackett, Hamline University

Commentator: Keith Teltser, West Virginia University

1:20pm Break for Lunch at Hatfield's A

2:40pm - There is no Mind-Body Problem: an Application of Wittgenstein's Private Language Argument, Joe LaBaw, Wake Forest University

Commentator: Jeff Mahaney, West Virginia University

3:30pm - What is Pragmatic Analyticity?: Or How to Eat Peas With a Knife, Alex Langlais, Loyola University New Orleans

Commentators: Joseph Trimboli, Dwight Pavlovic, West Virginia University

4:30pm – Keynote - The Metaphysics of Metrosexuality: Philosophy Meets Dr. McSteamy, Christina Van Dyke, Professor of Philosophy, Calvin College

5:30pm Dinner at Hatfield's A